Because an automobile belonging to the Pace Laundry collided with her, Margaret A. Custer has filed suit against the laundry firm to recover $2,500 damages. Through Attorney Le Gittings & Chamberlin and Robert E. Mattingly, the plaintiff says she was walking on 14th street near Park road February 19 last when the machine collided with her and inflicted serious injury.

Andrew J. Hurley has filed suit to recover $7,500 damages from Elizabeth Miller, owner of the building 2532 14th street, in which the plaintiff rented an apartment. Through Attorney Le Gittings & Chamberlin and Robert E. Mattingly, the plaintiff declares that the terrace steps in front of the building were defective and caused him to fall and to sustain injury.

The Plaza Amusement Company and Tom Moore are named defendants in a suit to recover $10,000 damages filed by Curtis Claggett, who says that a seat occupied by him at a moving picture show collapsed and dropped him about twenty inches to the floor. The fall inflicted painful injury, the plaintiff asserts. Attorney D. Edward Clarke appears for the plaintiff.

WOMAN'S PEACE PARTY PLANS TO ENTERTAIN

Will Present Centuries Old Drama With Miss Gwendolyn Ffoulke Prominent in Cast.

Miss Gwendolyn Ffoulke, daughter of Dudley Ffoulke and niece of Mrs. C. M. Ffoulke, the mother-in-law of the Belgian minister, who graduated from the Cathedral School last year, is to have one of the principal parts in "The Trojan Women" of Euripides, which is to be presented at the Columbia Theater Friday afternoon.

This centuries old drama is being produced here under the auspices of the woman's peace party by the Chicago Little Theater Company in propaganda against war.

Other Washington "Grads" Enrolled. Members of the Washington branch of the woman's peace party say that two other young women who recently graduated from Washington institutions are conspicuously cast in this performance.

But it is a strict rule of the management of this unique theatrical organization that the cast must remain anonymous. The actors are not allowed to give their names. Their names do not appear on the program or on any of the literature about the company and its plays.

For the pitance that is paid them, it is said, the actors and actresses are required to perform tasks at which even the most mediocre "stock" actor would balk. The first rule of the Little Theater Company is that all members of the cast must take on parts assigned to them. Sometimes they are assigned to take tickets at the door or to sell them at the box office. Members of the company have even been known to usher.

Assigned to Other Tasks.

The second rule is that all members of the company must turn in and help make costumes and scenery. Some of the women are said to be first-class carpenters. The only regular mechanical force attached to the company is the electrician, and incidentally, it is said, he is the highest-paid member, receiving more salary than the manager.

It is this sort of an organization which has produced Euripides' great drama, "The Trojan Women." The play has been brought to Washington for one performance only by the Washington branch of the woman's peace party.

TWO HIKE SURVIVORS PASS THROUGH CITY

En Route From San Francisco to Portland, Me., on Wagon, Jackley Says.

Two survivors of a party of six who claim to have set forth from San Francisco September 12, 1912, determined to win $1,000 apiece by walking to Portland, Me., before the passing of three years, arrived in this city early this morning, having traveled sixty-five miles in the last twenty-four hours.

The couple are Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Jackley of Boise, Idaho. The other four members of the original members of the hiking party are said to have dropped out at various points along the road. Jackley's sister and her husband, J. M. Dawson, have been walking with them for some time, but are merely in it for their health.

Jackley stated that he and his wife will have walked 25,000 miles and passed through forty-eight states when Portland is finally reached. There remain four months in which to complete his end of the bargain. Everywhere they had met with kindness and hospitality save in southern Georgia, he says, and there the natives turned out with shotguns when he and his wife stopped at a wayside house to ask for a drink of water.

Jackley stated that he plans to push on tomorrow. "Sitting still makes me stiff," he said. "I must keep going."

PLANS TO TAKE OVER QUARANTINE AT BOSTON

Public Health Service Anxious to Get Control of All Stations.

As result of the conference Monday between Mayor Curley of Boston, Acting Secretary Byron R. Newton of the Treasury Department and Assistant Surgeon General Glennan and Surgeon Koser of the public health service, a representative of the public health service will proceed to Boston shortly for consultation with a representative of the municipal administration to arrange a formal plan for transfer of the control of the Boston quarantine station from local to federal authority. The plan will be preliminary to acquisition of the property by appropriation of Congress, and will be on the basis of rental, a form of lease will be arranged, probably at a nominal figure.

When this plan for preliminary transfer of control is arranged, it will be submitted to the city council for approval, and to the authority of the Treasury Department. When such approval has been given the public health service will take possession.

Plan to Value Property.

While the public health service is operating the station, representatives of the federal government and of the municipality will be designated as a board of appraisal to determine the value of the property and the amount Congress will be asked to appropriate to acquire complete title.

The quarantine stations at New York, Baltimore and Galveston still remain under local or state control. Movements are now on foot to effect their transfer to the federal government. The public health service is especially anxious to obtain control of the entire quarantine system of the nation before the end of the European war, and is urging transfer of authority.

War a Disease Breeder.

A great influx of aliens, following the close of the war, is anticipated by the public health service. It is also expected by these sanitary authorities that they will bring with them much ravaging disease. The public health service is planning a system to cope with what it assumes to be a formidable and dangerous prospect.
